storytelling to connect,
educate, and inspire readers of every age and culture.

The Power of Storytelling in Worship and Education

A Practical Guide

Jed Griswold

A resource for pastors, religious educators, teachers, and parents.

Think about how Jesus taught. And rabbis. How have Buddhist monks taught children and adults for centuries? How have Hindu swamis taught? And Islamic leaders? And Indigenous elders in lands around the globe?

It is difficult to overstate the importance of storytelling when it comes to our desire to pass along our values, our spirituality, our faith to the next generation. Or to teach and inspire our own generation.

In this small book you will find perhaps the most concise and well-articulated guide to storytelling anywhere. Jed Griswold's 12 tips for storytelling and his 20 original stories are more than enough to clarify and inspire readers to engage in the art of storytelling. It also includes a sample lesson plan, which is available as a free download.

Saving the Future

Lessons in Resistance from Child Activists

Donna Sinclair

This book contains ideas and tools children can use as they work to save what they care about most, and lots of expert tips and advice from other children who are showing the way.

Saving the Future contains ten lessons on how to save the future – get as much political power as you can, defend your rights, choose solidarity, defend the sacred, care for the vulnerable, speak only truthful words, equip yourself to lead, and more – as told by children and youth who are busy trying to do that. It tells the stories of these young activists without attempting to place the weight of saving the world on the shoulders of children. For example, Nahira Gersten-Sim is working to help make it so that 16-year-olds will be able to vote. Hannah Bywater is fighting for vulnerable animals. Autumn Pelletier is defending the right of her people and of all people to clean water.

For Progressive Christians
Bible Studies SeriesDonald Schmidt*

Marcus Borg once said we should take the Bible seriously, but not literally. Wood Lake Publishing's series of Bible study guides seeks to do just that. It digs behind the layers of tradition and instead opens the scriptures in a way that invites us to determine our own understanding. What can faith stories written millennia ago tell us about how to live today? How is God's call for justice relevant in an age of computers, global warming, and pandemics? How can we find simple truths in these ancient texts?

These guides are perfect for individual and group use. Take time by yourself or join with others in a formal or informal study and you will find yourself immersed in wondrous story, freed from any sense that "this is what you must believe" and able to form or develop your own interpretation of texts that are still relevant and vital for today's living.

WOMEN IN THE BIBLE

Although women often play a crucial role in the most significant events in the Bible, they are typically cast as secondary characters who are less important than the male lead. Or they are presented as bit players who aren't even named. Yet these are strong women and we do an injustice to the biblical narrative and a disservice to ourselves if we gloss over them.

How the Light Shines

Stories, Strategies, and Spiritual Practices for Caregivers of People with Dementia

Trisha Elliott

This book is for caregivers who have a desire not only to hone their caring skills, but also to deepen their relationship with God through their care. It explores feelings of loss and challenge, but turns always towards potential and hope. There are over 100 types of dementia affecting over 50 million people around the world. Unfortunately, knowing the hard numbers doesn't make caregiving less demanding, challenging, exhausting, and yet in many ways, potentially uplifting. Caregiving is typically understood as an activity, as something we do – likely because caregivers do a lot. But caregiving is deeper than what we do. It is more than a series of tasks. It is, first and foremost, a call to love.

Alphabet of Faith

26 Words about Faith, Ethics, and Spirituality

Sara Jewell

Weaving together faith and culture, this breathtaking book explores what it means to live a life of faith and spirit in the 21st century. It brings together 26 "words" – such as energy, justice, liminal space, and X marks the spot – that reflect the challenges and joys of living in our beautiful but broken and often brutal world.

It is unwaveringly contemporary, progressive, and thought-provoking. The pieces are written for those who say they are spiritual but not religious, for people who are or may be familiar with church but perhaps don't attend anymore, for those who know Jesus and his teachings and are familiar with the Bible, even if they haven't opened it in awhile.

Fishing With My Fathers

A Memoir by Paul D. Rath

This book is like no memoir you've ever read.

Paul Rath writes with the soul of a poet, his prose alive with vibrant images and metaphors that capture the raw beauty and challenges of fishing for white fish in the frigid November air. Yet this is no mere fish story. As much as this book is about fishing, it is even more about relationships. Fishing with My Fathers explores the deep bonds that form between men of the earth, between men and the land and the water and the creatures that feed their spirits. With wonderful humour and genuine sensitivity, he regales the reader with tales of his father, grandfather, great-grandfather, as well as of his mentors – of the men who taught him how to grow up, how to control his emotions, how to work, how to grow his spirit, how to love, as well as how to fish.

Indigenous Principles for 100 Year Interstellar Voyages

Dawn Marsden

In this insightful exploration, a scholar of Indigenous health and education outlines some of the principles that support Indigenous societies, and how they might enlighten future space voyages. She examines how Indigenous principles can sustain not only the basic needs of space travellers and settlements for equitable distribution of food, air, water, and other resources, but also provide the philosophical, ethical, and social processes that would be needed.

Celebrating the Labyrinth

A Journey of the Spirit

Gailand MacQueen

Labyrinths have been around for a very long time. In fact, they have been used outside of formal religion as a ritual object to express spiritual values for at least 3500 years in countries all over the world. They have been carved into rocks, turf, and wood; engraved in metal; laid out in stones; woven in reeds; set in tiles; painted and drawn. This book tells their stories.

Annie Ruth's Truths

Wisdom, Warnings, and Wake-Up Calls

Collected and written by David Preston Sharp

A humorous, wisdom-filled collection of 111 lively expressions and conversations spoken from the mouth of a remarkable woman, faithfully recorded by her son. Each of Annie Ruth's sayings is a jewel of language and thought. With explanations where needed, Annie Ruth's "truths" cut across culture, race, and nationality, as they contain themes that are part of our common experience as human beings. Young and old will benefit from her wit and wisdom.

War and Peace with the Beasts

A History of Our Relationships with Animals

Brian Griffith

In this immediately engaging, story- and fact-filled page-turner of a book, Brian Griffith looks at the range of ways we relate to animals and the stories we tell about them. He asks how we choose whether buddyhood, fearful respect, businesslike predation, or genocidal war is the most appropriate response to each species we meet.

In Sync with the Sacred, Out of Step with the World

Embracing an Unconventional Life in a Culture of Conformity

Tom Stella

In this richly rewarding book, Tom Stella offers insights into what it means to live a “soul-full” life. More than that, he provides a guide on how to approach life in ways that make soul-sense, even if those ways seem like nonsense to the world around us.

Imagine a Joyful Economy

James Gustave Speth & Peter Denton

James Gustave (Gus) Speth and Peter Denton – world experts in their respective fields – are two voices to which we should listen. Speth argues that despite victories in environmental law, habitat protection and conservation, we are on a destructive path. Denton sees Christianity’s role as both complicity in the destruction of the natural world, and proposes the positive role it could still play.

The Architecture of Hope

Douglas MacLeod

Doug MacLeod’s compelling glimpse into the near future is not, at its core, a work of fiction. It offers an immediately compelling glimpse into the future, a near future only 15 years hence, and a way of living that is decentralized, re-localized, and regenerative.

Prayer for People Who Don't Believe in God

Vance Morgan

Many progressive Christians struggle with prayer – or, at least, with the kinds of prayer they are often exposed to: shouted, whispered, forceful, timid, begging, and demanding; everything from essay length unscripted petitions, to poetry read from a book, to rote recitations that no one pays much attention to, to pronouncements, to communications in a “prayer language.” Working only with the assumption that prayer might have value even for those who are not sure what, or who, or even if God is, this book is about opening oneself to the “possibility of God.”

Read, Wonder, Listen

Stories from the Bible for Young Readers

Laura Alary and Ann Sheng

“Every person who tells these stories does it in a slightly different way. And every person who reads these stories hears something a bit different. So even though these stories are very old, they are also always new.” So writes Laura Alary in the Introduction to the new children’s story Bible Read, Wonder, Listen. Alary combines her gift for telling the biblical stories, with historical research, contemporary concerns about language, and a compassionate and inclusive theology, making Read, Wonder, Listen a perfect children’s Bible for progressive Christians.

Activist Alphabet

Donna Sinclair

This book is aimed at people of faith who find themselves involved in resistance of any kind; but especially against those projects that hurt creation. Like pipelines or large dams or massive quarries. This book is an effort to figure out why and how environmental activists fall passionately in love with a lake, a river, or a planet and its people. It’s a primer, or an alphabet, on how to stay strong enough to keep putting that love into action, over and over.

Radical Gifts

Living the Full Christian Life in Troubled Times

Gene W. Marshall

“We are living in the midst of a turning point in the history of Christianity that is more radical than the Reformation period, perhaps as radical as the birth of Christianity itself. This emerging form of Christianity is so new that it does not seem to be Christianity at all to many people.” Progressive Christians will be immediately drawn to Marshall’s discussions of “Spirit” sickness and how to heal it, his reflections on the nature of God, the relevance of the life of Jesus for people today, and the importance of community and of ethical thinking, which are fresh and challenging.

The Family Story Bible, 3rd Edition

Ralph Milton and Margaret Kyle

From its first publication, The Family Story Bible has held a special place among children’s Bibles. Its use of inclusive language for God, its emphasis on stories that depict a God of love, its commitment to telling the stories of the women as well as the men in the Bible, its positive and life-affirming tone – all of these things have made The Family Story Bible a modern classic of children’s religious literature. Every bit as marvellous as the text by Ralph Milton, Margaret Kyle’s art – bright and colourful, full of wonder and joy – pulls it all together and helps bring the stories to life in the imaginations of children and adults alike.

Universal Spirit

The Seasons of the Christian Year in the Company of Northrop Frye

Don Collett

To a church that increasingly addresses itself to biblically illiterate people, to people who may have little or no church experience, and to those who simply call themselves spiritual-but-not-religious, Don Collett's look at the Christian year inspired by the work of the great Canadian scholar Northrop Frye offers a priceless gift.

The Gift of Story

Ralph Milton

In The Gift of Story, Ralph Milton romps through a lively reflection on what stories mean to humans, “the storytelling animal,” how we can all use stories to enrich our lives, and rejoice in the complementary role that stories and the logic of science play in our lives.

The Gift of Story picks up where Milton's live StoryFest events leave off. Those events – led by gifted musicians, artists, and storytellers – were designed to provide a spiritual “shot in the arm, focusing on evocative Bible stories and personal faith experiences.” The 10 StoryFest videos and other downloads, available at www.woodlakebooks.com/storyfest, help people come together to enjoy the rich and varied stories of the Bible, and discover ways those stories connect with their lives.

Passion & Peace

The Poetry of Uplift for All Occasions

Compiled by Diane Tucker

All cultures we know of, at all times, have had poetry of one sort or another – chants, songs, lullabies, epics, blessings, farewells – to mark life's most important moments, transitions, and transformations. Ever since our species began using words, we have arranged them to please, to experience the pleasures, the fun, of rhythm and rhyme, repetition and pattern. Passion & Peace: The Poetry of Uplift for All Occasions was compiled to speak directly to this deep human need, with 120 of the best poems from almost as many classical and contemporary poets, and including a thematic index.

Creative Aging

Stories from the Journal "Sage-ing with Creative Spirit, Grace and Gratitude"

Carolyn Cowan & Karen Close

Creative Aging is a powerful new social and cultural movement that is stirring the imaginations of communities and people everywhere. Often called Sage-ing, it takes many forms: academic, social and personal. Sage-ing is about seeking - satisfying inner gnawing and transforming it to knowing and action. Aging can be alchemy when one allows the realisation that to know thyself and contribute that knowing to our culture is indeed one of life's highest purposes. That knowing brings gratitude, grace and integrity.

Creating Change

The arts as catalyst for spiritual transformation

Keri K. Wehlander

Music, dance, drama, visual art, writing – what role do the arts play in our spiritual life? Some people believe the arts are essential to their spiritual practice because they bring moments of insight and transformation to their journey. Creating Change explores the many ways the arts cultivate spiritual depth and transformation. Stories from artists and congregations reveal how the arts breathe new life into prayer, worship, theological reflection, and the work of justice. It looks at how the arts allow us to express our spirituality with an individuality and depth that truly celebrates our connection to God.

The Bully and Me

Stories That Break the Cycle of Torment

Helen Carmichael Porter

The stories in The Bully and Me are first person accounts by both victims and bullies. The victims try to change the situation and usually, but not always, succeed. The stories are descriptive narratives of what happens to real people. They are based on Porter's observations, countless interviews, personal experience, and imagination. The book explores the idea that victims and bullies are two sides of the same coin and that the healing of both lies in dealing with this paradox.

Precious Days & Practical Love Caring for Your Aging Parent

James Taylor

Caring for an aging parent involves more than finding a care facility or dealing with legal and financial matters. It means feeling the frustration of always being "on call" if you live close by, or feeling helpless and guilty because you live far away and can do relatively little. It means riding the emotional roller coaster of having your roles reversed.

Sorry
Why Our Church Apologized

Carolyn Pogue, Bill Phipps, Maggie McLeod, & Stanley McKay

Sometimes it is not so hard to say sorry. Sometimes it is very hard. What matters most is meaning it when you say it. This is the story of why the United Church people apologized for the suffering caused by the Indian Residential Schools.

Oil & Water
Two Faiths: One God

Amir Hussain

Listen to any news broadcast today and the message comes through loud and clear: Islam is a religion of violence and behind every Muslim there lurks a potential terrorist. Islam is a threat to values of the Christian West. They are like oil and water. Clearly, they don't mix.

Oil & Water: Two Faiths One God confronts these popular perceptions head-on. With keen insight and gentle understanding, it explores the differences between Christianity and Islam, as well as the many things these two enduring faith traditions hold in common - including, first and foremost, their belief in and desire to be faithful to the one, true God; their shared roots and scripture (from the Jewish faith); and the spiritual values of peace and social justice.

How Maps Change Things
A conversation about the maps we choose and the world we want
Ward L. Kaiser

This full-colour book is about politics and faith and the values we hold. It's about human relations, social justice, peace, budgets, and environmental concerns. It's about that "Aha!" moment when we realize that maps are loaded not just with data, but with meaning, with the map maker's perceptions and prejudices about what's important and what's not. Ultimately, this book is about becoming aware of how we shape and use maps and how they in turn shape us, so that we can begin to reflect on and choose the kind of world we want.

Includes an experiential Study Guide perfect for use by adult and youth study groups of all kinds.

My Year of Buying Nothing

Lee Simpson

Lee Simpson may seem like an unlikely candidate to don the mantle of anti-consumerist prophet. She is, after all, the former publisher of Canada's most successful women's lifestyles magazine, Chatelaine. But that is just the first of many surprising things about her new book My Year of Buying Nothing.

Simpson invites readers into her world to witness first hand the struggles she faced, the decisions and compromises she had to make, and the epiphanies and wisdom she won during her year-long attempt to shed her "consumer" skin and live a more sustainable, more authentic, more earth-friendly life.

Time

From Famine to Feast

Donna Schaper

Donna Schaper offers encouragement and advice on how to leave the land of famine and find a seat at the feast. Discussing and then moving beyond the systemic sources of the time famine, Schaper's ultimate goal is to explore "the inner way, the way we have internalized the commandments of multiple systems and feel bad or wrong or in violation or out of compliance if we don't obey our orders to be busy, active, connected, overworked, and time famished." Schaper provides a spiritual practice for each week of the year, designed to bring us to our place of feast.

Soul Quest

A Spiritual Odyssey through 40 Days and 40 Nights of Mountain Solitude

Paul Hawker

Finding himself at midlife, feeling hollow and like a fraud, Paul Hawker embarks on a journey into the wilderness. In the tradition of the vision quest, like a hero in a mythic tale, he leaves his family and community to spend 40 days and 40 nights on a New Zealand mountaintop knowing full well the solitude, deprivation, and dangers he will face from exposure to the elements. But like many mystics and sages before him, he chooses a path of physical and spiritual testing as a way to break through the veneer of his life.

Jesse's Surprise Gift

Laura Alary

Illustrated by Ariane Elsamak

What Jesse wants most is a guitar. But it seems beyond his reach. His mom can't afford to buy him one, but she gives him an ocarina instead. Jesse is grateful and disappointed at the same time, so he goes out for a walk. Along the way he meets others who need his help. He gives what he can and learns that we can't always predict the results of our actions.

Author Laura Alary's charming story is full of unexpected twists and is based on a well-loved tale from India about giving (and receiving). Ariane Elsamak's whimsical illustrations draw us into the story, as we journey with Jesse and find ourselves surprised at how open-hearted giving is a gift in itself.

Victor's Pink Pyjamas

Laura Alary

Illustrated by William Kimber

Victor loves his pink (accident-in-the-washing-machine) pyjamas. But not everyone does. His father and sister think pink is just for girls. But Victor knows that lots of wonderful things are pink – like strawberry ice cream, bubble gum, and walruses basking in the sun – and they're not just for girls. What will happen when Victor outgrows his pink pyjamas and needs a new pair?

This engaging and humorous book explores what it is like to make choices that are different from the cultural norm.

Is That Story True?

Laura Alary

Illustrated by Margaret Kyle

In words and images sure to delight children and adults alike, Is That Story True? explores the kinds of "truth" that live within the stories we tell. As Maggie listens to a story about a little girl who grew up on the prairies, about a ruler who cut a knot in two, about a shepherd who went looking for a lost sheep, about a king who made a foolish wish, and finally, about a giant who lived in a beautiful garden, she discovers that some stories are true because they actually happened.

Tommy's Angel

Donna Sinclair
Illustrated by William Kimber

When Tommy's dog, Paddy, dies, Tommy is sad. He doesn't want another dog. He just wants Paddy. Then an angel visits Tommy. The angel reminds Tommy that he was a great dog owner, and that Paddy loved him very much – as much as Tommy loved Paddy. Tommy finds that his heart can hold even more than his enormous love for Paddy. This gentle and honest look at the loss of a loved one ends with "I wonder" questions for children, and a section for adults on talking to children about loss.

The Alligator in Naomi's Pillow

David Giuliano
Illustrated by Marlene McBrien

There's an alligator in her pillow and she needs mom and dad to make it go away. Over a few nights, Naomi's parents groggily try different approaches to rid Naomi's pillow of the alligator, but in the end it is Naomi who comes up with a way to face her scary nocturnal visitor. Naomi's parents gently and sleepily allow her to explore her fear of the alligator in a supportive way. What can be seen as a troubling and upsetting event (for both parents and child) is sensitively and realistically dealt with by a deft and light hand.

How Do I Pray for Grandpa?

Laura Alary
Illustrated by William Kimber

Miriam's Grandpa gets ill one day and everyone in the family is worried. Miriam asks God to make Grandpa better, but he stays sick. During this time, Miriam finds that there are many ways to see and speak to God, and that prayer may not be answered in the way we would like it. She learns that prayer can be like many things – bubbles in the wind, or water being soaked up by plant roots, and that prayer can always comfort, whether we are aware of it or not. This book is a gentle exploration of how children might pray, and how adults can help them understand some of the mystery of prayer.

Adventures of the God Detectives

Nancy C. Reeves & Linnea Good

Adventures of the God Detectives is about a group of young friends who form a club to discover the variety of ways God invites us into a relationship. The book contains seven stories for children aged six to ten years old, and is illustrated with black and white line drawings. Each story includes "Notes for Adults," and "Questions to consider with Children," designed to help parents talk with children about spiritual experiences. Adventures of the God Detectives chronicles the discoveries Tabitha, Emma, Jacob, and Fu-Han make, as they meet a native elder and a Franciscan monk, encounter a little sister's "imaginary companion," interpret a dream, wrestle with their conscience, read the Bible, and pray.

The Season for Strawberries

A Novel

Dorothy Brown Henderson

Meet Aleda Vastag – a feisty, single, female pastor who wears red rubber boots, keeps a cranky old horse as a pet, and doesn't mind a good drink, sometimes even in the church basement! Newly established as the parish's first female pastor, Aleda struggles with feelings of inadequacy and questions the relevance of her ministry as she faces all the characters and challenges, both large and small, that define village life. What happens when the strawberry social is threatened, and when a tragedy shakes the village to its core? The Season for Strawberries is a heartwarming and heartbreaking tale brimming with all the joys and sorrows of real life.
